Service Beyond Expectations

King William Residences

Symtech is proud to announce that we are currently working with the design team on the future construction of Hamilton's latest multi-residential project.

The project will consist of two 30-storey towers with 3 levels of underground parking, several ground level retail units, and 4 levels of shared podium with convenient amenities. Both towers will house a total of 580 new residential units.

Symtech will provide design assistance by implementing cost-saving measures throughout the design and construction of the project. Our team will be responsible for connecting the electrical and communications infrastructure of the buildings into one interconnected system.

We look forward to redeveloping Hamilton's downtown core through successful developments such as this.
